Objective

To lead the marble into the final hole at the top of the board.

PROGRESS OF THE GAMES

Prop up the board vertically against a wall, tree, etc. Place the marble inside the ring attached to the strings. Starting from the bottom of the board, the player maneuvers the marble inside the ring by pulling the strings attached to the board, avoiding holes in the board. The player has better control of the ropes by crossing them: his or her right hand holds the left string and his or her left hand holds the right string. If the marble accidentally falls into a hole before reaching the end of the board, the player either ends his turn or starts over. There is more than one possible path to the final hole on the board.

For two players:

Option 1: Each player pulls one string, cooperating with the other player to successfully maneuver the marble across the board and into the final hole.

Option 2: One player holds both strings, but turns his back to the game. The other player guides the first player, who cannot see the board.
